PREFACE to the 2nd Edition

Since the release of the well acknowledged first edition of “Inventory of Air Quality and Health Authorities and Institutions in the WHO European Region” last year many changes mainly concerning contact data have been found, especially in the fast-moving sector of web links. Some new institutions were included as well. Due to this and also as a result of an evaluation process the WHO Collaborating Centre for Air Quality Management and Air Pollution Control decided to publish a second and revised edition of the Air Hygiene Report 16 issue.

We would like to thank everybody supporting us to improve this inventory. We hope that this updated second edition will be as informative and useful as the first one and will also help increase the exchange of information on the international level. If there are any news, corrections and/or improvements, please do not hesitate to contact us.

Although this publication is intended to be up-to-date there can be no guarantee for completeness.

This inventory is also available at our website:
<http://www.umweltbundesamt.de/whocc/titel/titel21.htm>.

Dr Andreas Gies
Head of the Department ‘Environmental Hygiene’ and of the WHO Collaborating Centre for Air Quality Management and Air Pollution Control

PREFACE

Exchange of information is an essential part of cooperation, in particular at the international level. Over the past 20 years the WHO Collaborating Centre for Air Quality Management and Air Pollution Control has helped improve such exchange at various levels. During recent work it has become apparent that there is a need for a compilation of addresses and websites of the national authorities and institutions dealing with air quality – both ambient and indoor air – and health for the WHO European Region.

Therefore, the WHO Collaborating Centre for Air Quality Management and Air Pollution Control has undertaken to compile the coordinates of environment and health ministries as well as bodies at the sub-ordinated level. During summer 2006 National Focal Points and a number of colleagues of all 53 WHO European Member States have been contacted to provide the respective information.

This publication is intended to assist those who would like to get into contact with authorities or institutions working in the field of air quality and health. It contains addresses, phone contacts and weblinks of governmental authorities and other institutions in the Member States of the WHO European Region. About 250 weblinks are given which mostly provide direct links to sites on air quality and health information and/or data in English. In some cases, information is available in the national language only. Although we have done our best in completing the search it is obvious that there can be no guarantee for completeness. This inventory will be updated based on the feedback received.

This compilation would not have been possible without the generous assistance of many individuals who have provided us with additional information. This support is gratefully acknowledged.

We hope you will find the booklet informative and useful for your work. The text is also available at our website:
