

Results of the categorisation systems BTE and DTB based on the defined evaluation criteria

Aspect	BTE	DTB
I. Categorisation architecture	Division into area/main department (ladies/men/children), Department (e.g. menswear, men's articles, men's accessories, men's workwear, etc.), Main merchandise groups (e.g., men's menswear: suits, coats, jackets, jackets, etc.) Merchandise groups (e.g., men's menswear, suits: 2-piece suits, multi-piece suits, modular jackets, etc.).	Organised into main area (women's/men's/children's clothing) Main product groups (e.g. coat, suit, costume, dress, etc.), product groups (e.g. coat: wool, poplin, leather, traditional costumes) Sub-groups (e.g. dress, day dress 1-piece: long sleeve, 1/2 sleeve, without sleeve, etc.).
II. Orientation and basis	Purpose: uniform standard for the clothing industry, comparability of data between individual companies and levels is to be ensured. Underlying system: not apparent	Purpose: uniform standard for the clothing industry, comparability of data between individual companies and levels is to be ensured. Underlying system: not apparent
III. Depth of categorisation	No continuous differentiation between knitted and warp-knitted fabrics (differentiation only in the main product groups "knitted fabrics", "warp-knitted fabrics"), the use of materials is not differentiated.	The use of materials is not continuously differentiated within the subgroups.
IV. Coverage of product functions	The sports department includes outdoor, sports and swimwear products. Functional underwear is included. No outdoor products for children are listed.	Specific main product groups include outdoor products (outdoor jacket, beach and leisure). Apart from outdoor jackets, no further distinctions are made for functional clothing.
V. Unambiguous allocation of products	Within the main product groups, a partial distinction is made between knitted and warp-knitted goods. As a result, knitted and crocheted products are also listed in other main product groups (e.g. cardigans (knitwear) can also be assigned to the main product group jacket).	No irregularities are recognisable